THE EXPRESS LIFT COMPANY LIMITED

INCORPORATING SMITH, MAJOR & STEVENS LIMITED

The Company has been associated with Northampton for nearly 40 years although the beginning of the business can be traced back to 1770 when Archibald Smith patented a spring door-closing device, improved models of which are made by the Company to this day.

The move to Northampton was made in 1910 when the original Works and office buildings were built near the site of the Abbey of St. James the Apostle. A reputed fragment of the Abbey church was discovered during excavations in 1921 and is preserved in the offices.

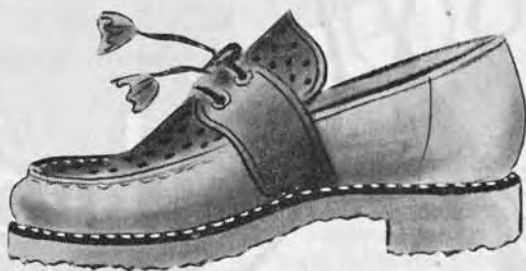

To-day, in greatly extended factory premises, modern passenger and goods lifts of the highest class are designed and manufactured by craftsmen. Family service in the Company is traditional and at times families have been represented by three generations. Many of our employees are enjoying retirement after 50 years service and several still in the employ of the Company have over 40 years to their credit.

Giant wheels, biting into the ground, jarred by every kind of shock, thrusting against banks and boulders, to-day run without bearing trouble, because Timken tapered-roller bearings are used.

These bearings—originally evolved for horse-drawn buggies—embody a basic principle which gives them a great capacity for heavy loads and thrust, and for this reason they are used in great rolling mills, in machine tools, in automobiles and aircraft, and in railway coaches and locomotives.

They are made in one of the finest high-precision engineering works in the country.

NORTHAMPTONSHIRE RECORDS

The delightful setting of 13th century Higham Ferrers is the hub of one of Northamptonshire's most progressive shoe-making firms—John White (Footwear) Ltd.—whose Head Offices are within a stone's throw of the fine mediaeval church with its octagonal crocketed spire rising 170 feet above the Ancient Borough of Higham Ferrers.
